課程介紹：學習5步驟

STEP #1 訓練英文耳

由外師逐句朗讀課文，學習道地英文發音。

When scientists grow nerve cells (neurons) in a laboratory dish, they naturally connect with one another and form networks. That made some scientists wonder if those networks could learn things, like a brain can. Recently, Australian researchers succeeded in teaching one network to play a video game!

First, scientists grow almost a million neurons in a dish. After the neurons formed a network, the scientists connected electrodes to the dish to teach the neurons how to play "Pong," a simple video game with a ball and paddle. The scientists sent electrical information into the dish telling the neurons the location and direction of the ball. If the neurons reacted to hit the ball, the scientists "rewarded" the network by sending a predictable pattern of electricity. If the network "missed," they sent a random burst of electricity. The nerve cells in the dish learned to play the game within five minutes!

STEP #2 單字填填看

透過邊聽朗讀邊填入單字或句型，訓練學生的英語聽力。

It's ? that grows in the ocean.

請依照你聽到的句子，點選 ? 正確的單字。

gress grass glass grace

STEP #3 文章解析

外師逐句講解文章內容，並提示文法重點。

Sometimes it's hard to know whether someone is telling the truth or someone is telling a lie. One hundred years ago, John Larson invented a machine called a polygraph, or "the detector." First, the machine measures your blood pressure, heart rate, and breathing rate while you answer simple questions truthfully. Experts know that these measurements get higher when a person lies, so when the lie detector records an increase, they know that you're lying! Brilliant, right?

Maybe not! We now know that it's possible for a person to lie to a lie detector. It works like this: when answering the simple truthful questions, you secretly do something to make your heart rate, breathing and blood pressure get higher, such as biting your tongue while answering questions truthfully. The pain makes the measurements increase. Then, when you lie, it might not be detected because your "truthful" measurements are already very high!

STEP #4 單字文法練習

提供單字及文法練習，扎實打好英語基礎。

單字連連看	topic	● 草
	grass	● 草原
	shark	● 問題
	difficult	● 標題
	scientist	● 記者
	question	● 鯊魚
	reporter	● 科學家
	meadow	● 困難的

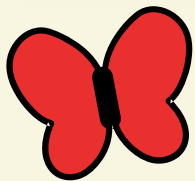

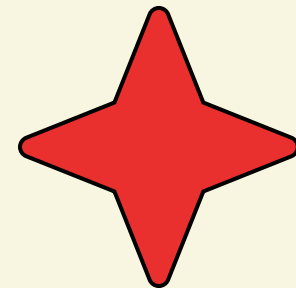

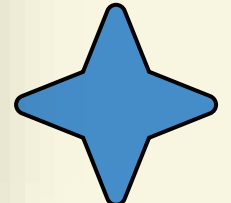

STEP #5 閱讀練習

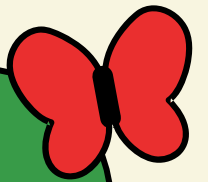

提供總結性評量，供學生自我檢核學習成效。

2. Why do scientists care about sea grass?
- (A) It can help them understand sharks.
 - (B) It can help to stop climate change.
 - (C) It only grows in shallow water near the coast.

回饋：依據文章第二段的 "Who cares? Scientists do, especially scientists studying climate change. Why? One important reason is that sea grass stores carbon so it's good for the planet." 得知研究氣候變遷的科學家之所以特別關注海草，原因之一是海草具有儲存碳的特性，因此可以推知海草有助改善氣候變遷。文中未提到選項 (A)、(C) 成為科學家關注海草的理由。
