

Give students voice and choice in their reading journey with myON

Empower students to build their reading skills in a way that works for them

Students can:

Choose books based on their age, reading level, and interests

Customize their myON Library for easy access to favorite topics

Self-monitor reading time and progress

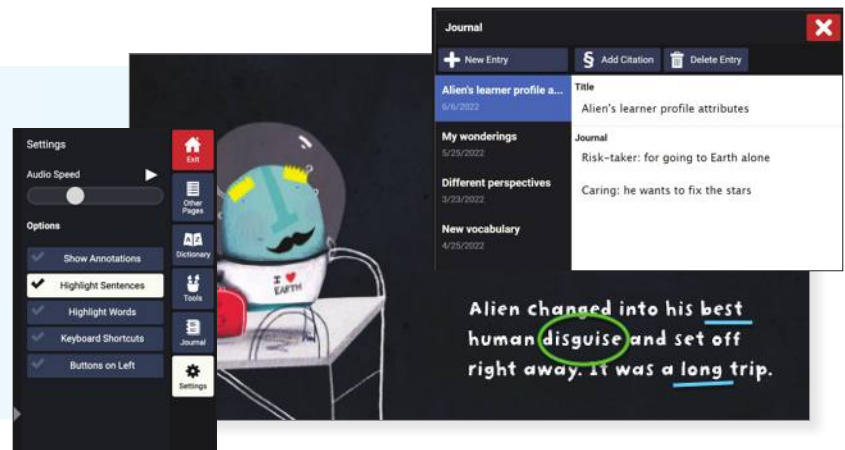

Select unit of inquiry materials that best suit their reading needs

More than just reading

With myON, students leverage embedded supports to not only build language skills, but develop self-management and research skills.

Interactive tools help to boost student reading experiences and engagement.

The Journal can be used in a variety of creative ways and references can be recorded with the help of the citation tool.

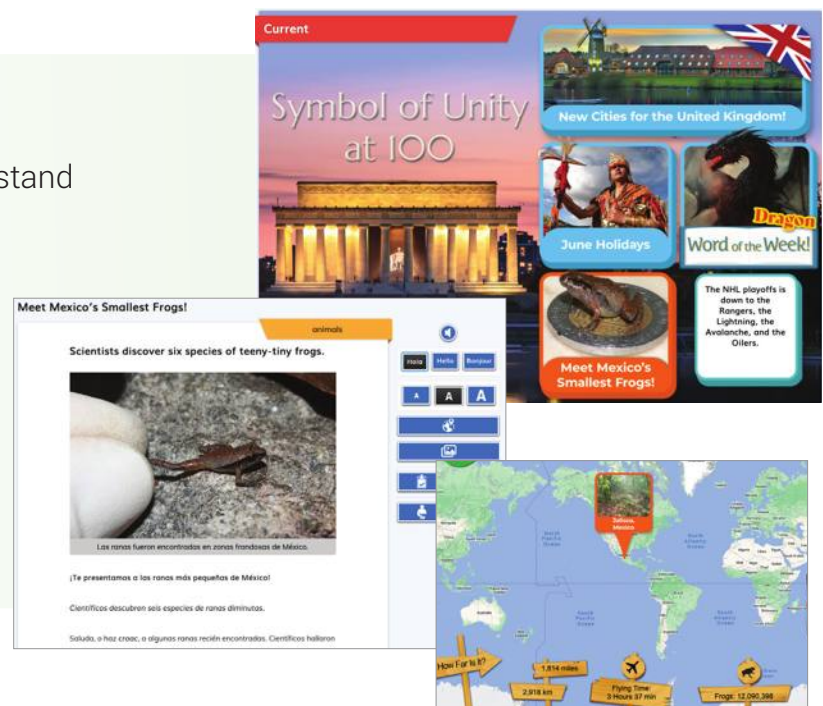

Foster global mindedness with myON News

Incorporate myON News time into the weekly schedule to help promote a lifelong interest in current events and build communication skills.

With five age-appropriate news articles delivered every weekday, 52 weeks a year, students can stay up-to-date on the latest news, discoveries, world events, sports, and more.

Students can:

- Engage in multimedia to better understand the news
- See where news is occurring relative to their location
- Search the archive for articles related to units of inquiry or topics of interest
- Read an idea for taking action after every article
